In a special message to voters within the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School System, Superintendent Joe D. McCullough urged all citizens to consider the need for the proposed school expansion which will be voted on in a special bond issue election November 24.

Mr. McCullough said: "From observing the architect's plans of our proposed building program, you can readily see that we have included all of our district in planning additional building facilities: a new high school building to be located on Blue Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis, which will include grades 10, 11, and 12. This building will relieve the crowded conditions now existing at Bay High School. A three-room classroom addition, a stage for gymnasium and a science laboratory with equipment and covered walkways for Valena C. Jones School, this addition will relieve crowded conditions which now exist in both the elementary and high school. A two classroom addition to the Waveland School in order to have grades 1 through 6 rather than 1 through 4. The erecting, constructing, and equipping of a stadium dressing-room building to be located just west of the present Bay High Stadium."

"Listed below are the true figures showing the increase in enrollment for the last five years and the predicted enrollment for the next five years."

Year	White	Colored	Total
1960-61	1,028	520	1,548
1961-62	1,035	537	1,572
1962-63	1,232	562	1,794
1963-64	1,352	595	1,947
1964-65	1,453	670	2,123
1965-66	1,554	700	2,254
1966-67	1,655	730	2,385
1967-68	1,756	760	2,516
1968-69	1,856	790	2,646
1969-70	1,970	820	2,790
TOTAL 2000

"From the above figures you can readily see that our enrollment in the white schools will be doubled by 1970 over what it was in 1960. The trend in the future will be even more year after year. "Good schools increase property values. Residential property values in a town go down by millions of dollars if the public schools deteriorate. Conversely, where a community provides equal and quality education, property values stabilize and better loans are more easily obtained. Any realtor will tell you that families with children ask him first, 'How are the schools?' Good schools that provide the necessary facilities for all boys and girls attract good families who are willing to pay higher prices for homes. It is my hope that all of the people in this community and surrounding territory will speak out in favor of our school bond issue. This program carried to a successful conclusion is urgently needed to prepare our children for their life ahead."

The Game and Fish Commission
Wolff State Office Bldg.
Jackson, Mississippi

Mississippi Marine Conservation
Commission Biloxi, Miss.

Gentlemen:

It is my understanding that the matter of amending the Agreement as to the dividing line for jurisdictional purposes, between salt and fresh water heretofore entered into between the commissions is being contemplated by the respective commissions. I would like to call to the attention of both commissions the fact that a number of people in Hancock County have contacted me relative to the present location of the dividing line. It is the opinion of all of the people who have contacted me, many of whom have been closely connected with the seafood industry and as sport fishermen for many years that the present dividing line is unrealistic insofar as same is defined in Hancock County. Generally speaking, the present dividing line skirts the Coast line, placing Herron Bay, Pearl River and all of the tide water streams and bayous under the jurisdiction of the State Game and Fish Commission. Whereas I consider it merely a question of who is to enforce the laws, and make no specific objection as to who shall have jurisdiction over these waters, it is my considered opinion, based upon my own experience and the recommendations of a large number of people, that it is impossible to catch fresh water fish in many of the areas under the jurisdiction of the State Game and Fish Commission and it is my understanding that it is being required to have a fresh water fishing license to fish in these areas even though it is impossible to catch such fresh water fish.

I believe that the solution to the problem would be, insofar as Hancock County is concerned, to establish the jurisdictional line in all areas of Hancock County, with the exception of the Bay of St. Louis, at a point North of the L&N Railroad, and in the instance of the Bay of St. Louis on a line following the shore line of the Bay of St. Louis cutting directly across the mouth of Jordan River and across the mouth of Cut Off Bayou.

I would also hope, although this area is not in Hancock County, to see this line continue around the Bay of St. Louis following the shoreline thereof, and across the mouth of Wolf River, Bayou De-Lisle, Bayou Portage and the canals leading in o Pass Christian Isles.

A great deal of controversy has arisen due to enforcement policies of the State Game and Fish Commission requiring the possession of a fishing license, although many of the people who have been apprehended in areas under the jurisdiction of the State Game and Fish Commission were obviously fishing for salt water fish, for which no license is required. It is my further suggestion that instructions should be given to personnel of the State Game and Fish Commission that even in the waters under the jurisdiction of the State Game and Fish Commission that it should not be considered a violation of the law when persons in these waters are obviously fishing for salt water fish and they do not have in their possession any species of fresh water game fish. I point this out for the reason that in our area there are many places North of the L&N Railroad where in certain seasons of the year it is totally impossible to catch fresh water game fish.

Yours very truly
WALTER J. PHILLIPS

Why Should A Democrat V ote For A Republican??

As local Democrats steeped in the traditions of the South, not as apologists for Lyndon Johnson's support of the Civil Rights bill, but as true Mississippians and Mississippi Democrats, interested in the welfare of Mississippi, we cannot conceive of Mississippi Democrats voting for Senator Goldwater for President, and give you the following reasons for our opinion:

1. Many Mississippians have mistakenly been led to believe that they should vote for Barry Goldwater because he voted against the civil rights bill. Senator Goldwater, a long time supporter of the civil rights movement, on election year voted against the bill on two grounds, neither of which was the integration of our schools, the most vital matter.

2. Who nominated Senator Goldwater in San Francisco? Not a democrat of any stripe but the leader of all republicans, Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the one man who takes absolute credit for organizing the cloture vote that silenced the voices of our own Mississippi Senators and that of other Southern Senators, thereby bringing to passage this bill Republicans have supported since reconstruction days.

3. Do you believe Dirksen, Rockefeller, et al (yes, Rockefeller now supports Goldwater) would vote for a man who is against their pet measure? The true sentiments of Goldwater are expressed in pamphlets and literature now being distributed by Republicans to Negroes in the District of Columbia, (Washington), New York, and other eastern cities which reveals Goldwater in a different color than shown in the South. President Johnson, in his speech in New Orleans, in the heart of the South, was truthful and courageous. He said three-fourths of the Republicans and two-thirds of the Democrats voted for the bill, he signed it, and he would enforce it, the same as any other President would have to do. This was not double-talk.

4. Yes, Goldwater by his own campaign literature is a dyed-in-the-wool integrationist. President Johnson gave all-out support to the civil rights bill which he inherited. To cast an intelligent ballot we must look then to issues other than civil rights. What are they?

5. Goldwater in his book "The Conscience of a Conservative" makes many startling pronouncements (he is now crawling on most of them) the general tenor of which is to abolish all government aid programs. These include aid to public road, rural electrification, crop supports (the price of cotton today without government support is 21c) social security, federal aid to old age assistance, public works projects, such as rivers and harbors development, soil conservation, flood control, Farmers Home Administration, and its aid in providing adequate housing for farm families, as well as its present projects in this State of financing water systems for homes in rural areas, and then, of course, there is such agencies as the Federal Housing Administration that has offered financing of good homes for urban dwellers in Mississippi (and mostly white) and surely others which directly benefit you or a neighbor. Abolish these programs for what? ???

6. Give aid to Goldwater, Why? According to Governor Paul B. Johnson you will probably meet this aid, not face to face, but in your back. An associated press article from San Antonio appearing in the Jackson Clarion-Ledger on October 13, 1964 quotes Governor Paul B. Johnson as saying the Republicans "are making a serious mistake in the South". "The mistake, he said, has been GOP refusal to allow citizens-for-Goldwater groups to function without Republican leaders insisting on fund raising and other activities going through the party."

7. Wirt Yerger, Republican leader in Mississippi, and his crew do not want Mississippi Democrats to have knowledge of their inside maneuvering, much less where the Goldwater campaign money goes. With this money and our congressional delegation displaced as Federal patronage dispensers watch out Mississippi Democratic office-holders. A two-party system is yours with the opposition party in the hands of Yerger, who supported President Eisenhower when he sent troops into Little Rock, and when he appointed Mr. Earl Warren, a Republican, as Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court to write the school integration decision.

8. It is the Democrats who have brought large pay-rolls into Hancock County at the Mississippi Test Facility, into Harrison County and Jackson County in many government projects, causing this Mississippi Gulf Coast economy to be the greatest in its history. Should we turn it back to the Republicans who gave us three recessions in eight years of Republican administration?

Think on these issues, and "In Your Heart" you know the Democrats are right.

MISSISSIPPIANS!

Our Governor says he's "CRAWFISHING" in your heart you know he's wrong!

BE SURE TO VOTE

STAY DEMOCRATIC FOR THE USA

Let's now face facts about the Republican Candidate.

Frank Dubuque, Iowa, we met another well known, L. R. Kemper, it is interesting to meet people from other states and exchange views on hunting, fishing, etc. It's a good way to learn how they do things in other parts of the country. L. R. expects to settle in another state soon. How about giving Mississippi a try? We have lots to offer.

Had several games of golf with fellows I met last year. Among them were Sump Cummings, Archie Martin, E. W. Shelton and Jack Shelton, Jim Gergen, Fred Huddleston, Joe Franeli, and Luther Hawkins.

The duck season opened in Oklahoma on October 24 and runs through Nov. 4. Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset. Daily limit, 4.

Did you know that Canada usually have 30 to 40 birds per acre.

Of course we use our outboard motors the year round but should you choose to store your motor for a while, here are some hints on storing it.

All internal parts should be lubricated with a rust preventive oil. The gear case should be drained and refilled with the manufacturer's lubricant. The water pump should be drained and the fuel system cleaned. The connector removed to allow thorough cleaning of the tank and hose.

The propeller shaft should be cleaned and lubricated and the drive pin replaced if worn. A lightly oiled cloth should be rubbed on all metallic parts of the engine.

If the engine has an electric starter, the battery should be removed, top cleaned, cells filled, and stored in a dry, cool place.

The engine should be stored in upright position where temperatures and humidity will not fluctuate too sharply and should not be stored in an airtight container.

A picture in the Stillwater News showed Lake Carl Blackwell at Stillwater covered with hundreds of ducks which are evidently heading south. It was a nice sight to see these ducks. The season is already open in Oklahoma and closes Nov. 4th.

Witnessed the parade headed by Lynda Bird Johnson last Saturday. Lynda Bird was presented an Indian Headdress before the start of the football game between Oklahoma State and Kansas State Universities. The parade, a big one, listed 96 units and a number of floats and a tour of the decorations before the fraternity homes was worth seeing. It was a home coming preparation before the game. Stillwater is strictly a college town. Over 100,000 witnessed the parade.

According to a newspaper article, 5 persons died in Denver with the opening of the big game season, two of gun-shot wounds and 3 of heart attacks. Of course we don't have big game hunting in our section but small game hunting can be just as dangerous. Be careful, hunt safely and save your own and other hunters' lives. Learn to use a gun properly and wisely. An unloaded gun can't kill anyone, but be sure it's unloaded. Don't point the gun toward others and be sure you recognize the game before shooting.

The second part of the dove season opened on Oct. 24 and runs through Nov. 9. The season on rails and gallinules opened on Oct. 1 and ends November 19, 1964. Woodcock and snipe opens on Nov. 27 and ends Jan. 15, 1965 locally.

Met Lee Bell, associate editor of the Stillwater News-Press. Besides playing golf with him, made a tour of the plant. Really interesting when you are not on the working roster.

Did you know that almost 28,000 mourning dove hunters bagged 550,000 birds over grain fields and watering areas in Oklahoma.

According to Paul Newlin, sports editor of the Stillwater News-Press this is what happened in Oklahoma and has happened in our state. Let's be careful and respect other people's property. Herman Ekhoft is mad. And he has a right to be so. Ekhoft, who lives north of Glencoe, lost a registered Guernsey last Tuesday. The heifer was killed by hunters, shot through the neck.

You can't blame landowners

CHANGES IN LAW

Low and middle income taxpayers who own stock will benefit from changes in the 1964 tax law made in the treatment of dividend income.

According to Mr. J. G. Martin Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue, the amount of dividend income that is not taxable has been doubled.

Under the new law, individuals may receive up to $100 in dividends tax free. Previously, only $50 was not subject to tax.

When both husband and wife receive dividends, they may exclude up to $200 of dividend income on a joint return.

Besides doubling the dividend exclusion amount, the 1964 law changed the dividend credit provision. This credit drops from 4 to 2 percent for 1964 and is eliminated entirely for 1965 and hereafter.

The dividend credit provision allows taxpayers to take a credit of a percentage of their dividend income against their Federal income tax.

Mr. Martin said that for most stockholders, the changes in the dividend exclusion and dividend credit provisions will be a tax saving. Taxpayers with large stock holdings will be adversely affected by these changes but this should be more than offset by the general rate reductions provided by the 1964 Revenue Act.

who won't let hunters on their property. Too many hunters knock down grain, leave fences open and shoot at stock. These careless persons aren't outdoorsmen, they're cheap people who are no better than delinquents roaming the streets destroying public and private property.

Any person who can't tell the difference between farm livestock and game animals shouldn't have a gun and be allowed to be in the fields. These persons put a bad name on the responsible hunter who consequently is not allowed to hunt on private property.

Killing a cow is not an accident. Even if Ekhoft's Guernsey had been killed by a stray bullet, the person who pulled the trigger is guilty for shooting a high-powered rifle without knowing where the bullet is headed.

At a party, given by Capt. and Mrs. Howard Duff for yours truly and Mrs. Elliott were: Major and Mrs. James Gergen, Capt. and Mrs. Jerome Cassidy, Capt. and Mrs. James Gergen, Capt. and Mrs. Rex Hollis, and Capt. and Mrs. George Mosey. All the men are members of the Air Force, play golf and participate in other sports. A swell group to know.

BERNARD FARRELLY
Bernard, former manager of the Yacht Club, is a fishing enthusiast and has been for a number of years. Fishing is his favorite sport and he says pulling them in never gets tiresome. He usually knows where they are biting and passes out some good information to others. He enjoys mingling with friends at the club and gives a helping hand when ever called upon. Keep up the good work Berney.

Care Foods...

NEW YORK - Goal of the 1964 CARE Food Crusade is $4,500,000, to complete a year-long plan to help feed 37,400,000 needy people in 34 countries. It was announced today by CARE, the agency's executive director. The fund appeal is peaked through the holidays.

U. S. Food for Peace donations of farm abundance, allocated after domestic relief needs are met, form the mainstay of the plan. The countries themselves pay most of the distribution costs, under CARE Partnership Programs that will cover 34,100,000 recipients. The remaining 3,300,000 persons, in 21 countries, must depend on 650,000 CARE Food Crusade packages, delivered in the names of Americans who give a dollar per package.

Farm food contents include flour, corn meal, wheat products, milk powder, oils. CARE also adds product donations from private firms and buys foods to match country needs.

The packages, averaging 27 lbs., go to Afghanistan, British Honduras, Chile, Colombia, Cyprus, Greece, Haiti, Hong Kong, India, Iran, Jordan, Korea, Macau, Mexi-

SOUTHERN DEMS MAP STRATEGY

ATLANTA - Democratic leaders from three Southern states worked out strategy for the final big push in the presidential campaign. Larry O'Brien of Washington, the national campaign director, met behind closed doors this week at a downtown hotel with Democrats from Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Georgia's party executive director, Travis Stewart, said the Democrats were planning their strategy for the final two weeks in the three states where Republican strength has been reported at its biggest peak in any presidential race. The governors of both Alabama and Mississippi have said that Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee, holds the lead in their states.

In Georgia, the Democrats foresee a close race.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders of Georgia, who has been leading the fight for his party's ticket in the state, was at the strategy meeting briefly. The session underscored an intensified Democratic effort, following a high level Georgia Democratic meeting when Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., predicted this state would go Democratic by a slim margin.

ADMINISTRATION OF MEDICARE VOTE AS PEOPLE WRITE TO CONGRESSMEN

Washington - John W. Edelman, president of the National Council of Senior Citizens, says his organization has been told by Congressional leaders that Administration is confident it will win a House showdown vote on "Medicare" before Congress adjourns.

Edelman said the U.S. Senate's whopping 60 to 28 vote for passage of the Social Security bill-including the controversial public hospital insurance for the elderly - has stimulated peak optimism for early enactment.

Many Southerners who have not previously supported Medicare joined with five liberal Republicans and 44 long-time Democratic backers of the bill to produce the phenomenal 60 to 28 vote, said Edelman. "This broadened base of support has stimulated new clamor for enactment in many areas of the nation. It has given the general public a first genuine hope for early passage and increased the pressure on House members."

The leader of the two-million-member old folks' organization said his group was not aware of any particular strategy which might be used to secure the House vote - a vote which has been denied in the seven years since the original Social Security Act was passed.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee support the bill, but the Chairman, Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.) - has so far resisted attempts to report out a bill. No one knows how House-Senate conferees will finally vote.

"However, we have been assured that the House majority leadership is confident the measure will reach the House floor and we can win the vote," said Edelman.

Edelman said a heavy volume of constituent mail and telegrams in favor of "Medicare" has begun to arrive at the offices of lawmakers.

Don't rely on these devices alone to halt preventable soil erosion. Establish a beach-head against dirt in a back hall, workroom or enclosed vestibule.

Set up a mud-trap where boots and rain coats and other bad weather clothing is removed before it gets a chance to cause extra work.

A plastic waste basket is an excellent holder for dripping umbrellas. A mud book rack with a tray to catch dripping mud and water will save floors and also help over shoes to dry faster. Wall hooks are easily installed for hanging rainwear.

Low-set hooks will encourage small children to hang their raincoats. Give each child a colorful plastic clothespin to clip over shoes together in pairs. You might even make a special place with a name on adhesive tape to remind youngsters where to put their rainy-day clothes.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

Just look at my floors. Those tracks from muddy overshoes, boots, rubbers.

How many times during the coming fall and winter will you say those words with the accompanying "Why don't you wipe your feet before you come in the house?"

You will be right that it's best to halt dirt before it can mar your polished floors or flake off to soil clothes closets and its contents.

Nail a scrub brush just outside of the door so Mary and Junior and Dad and all can scrape their shoes over its bristles. Place a big blotter or mat inside the door to absorb drips.

Another way to catch drips is to spread a grooved plastic runner like those used in public buildings. You can buy this material by the yard. Wipe it off with a sudsy cloth after a rain, then roll it up for storage until needed again.

Capitol Hill - Following the Senate vote, the public will have a chance to voice its opinion on the Medicare bill. The House will vote on the bill before adjournment.

Both the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee have held lengthy hearings on the hospital insurance proposals. In addition, the Special Senate Committee on Aging has held numerous hearings on the bill.

Senator Pat McNamara (D-Mich.), chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Health of the Elderly, says his committee found that only a little over half of the health insurance proposals today are nearly as good as it was five years ago; over 6 million aged persons have no health insurance at all. An additional 3 million aged have commercial health insurance policies that pay $10.00 a day or less toward hospital daily room charges which now average more than $20.00.

YOUR SAVINGS BOND QUIZ

QUESTION: I have been buying bonds in my name, with my son as co-owner, intending to use them to put him through college. I understand there could be a tax advantage if the bonds were in his name, with myself as beneficiary, and want to know if this bonds can be re-issued.

ANSWER: Yes; however you would be required to report and pay Federal income tax on interest that has accrued on the bonds up until the time of the change in ownership. From that point on, accrued interest would become income of your son for purposes of taxation. There would be no State or local income taxes.

QUESTION: When is the most advisable or advantageous time to exchange E bonds for H bonds?

ANSWER: Whenever a need for current income arises, most commonly at retirement time. Through such an exchange, the principal is retained intact; accrued interest on the E bonds does not need to be reported for tax purposes until the H bonds are redeemed; and regular Treasury checks for interest on the H bonds are mailed every six months.

QUESTION: Is it possible for a minor to redeem a Savings Bond issued in his name?

ANSWER: Yes, provided he is sufficiently competent to sign his name to the request for payment and understand the nature of the transaction. Generally, the fact that the request for payment has been signed, and certified by the paying agent, is sufficient proof of competency.

Just look at my floors. Those tracks from muddy overshoes, boots, rubbers.

How many times during the coming fall and winter will you say those words with the accompanying "Why don't you wipe your feet before you come in the house?"

You will be right that it's best to halt dirt before it can mar your polished floors or flake off to soil clothes closets and its contents.

Nail a scrub brush just outside of the door so Mary and Junior and Dad and all can scrape their shoes over its bristles. Place a big blotter or mat inside the door to absorb drips.

Another way to catch drips is to spread a grooved plastic runner like those used in public buildings. You can buy this material by the yard. Wipe it off with a sudsy cloth after a rain, then roll it up for storage until needed again.

How many times during the coming fall and winter will you say those words with the accompanying "Why don't you wipe your feet before you come in the house?"

You will be right that it's best to halt dirt before it can mar your polished floors or flake off to soil clothes closets and its contents.

Nail a scrub brush just outside of the door so Mary and Junior and Dad and all can scrape their shoes over its bristles. Place a big blotter or mat inside the door to absorb drips.

Another way to catch drips is to spread a grooved plastic runner like those used in public buildings. You can buy this material by the yard. Wipe it off with a sudsy cloth after a rain, then roll it up for storage until needed again.

YOUR SAVINGS BOND QUIZ

QUESTION: I have been buying bonds in my name, with my son as co-owner, intending to use them to put him through college. I understand there could be a tax advantage if the bonds were in his name, with myself as beneficiary, and want to know if this bonds can be re-issued.

ANSWER: Yes; however you would be required to report and pay Federal income tax on interest that has accrued on the bonds up until the time of the change in ownership. From that point on, accrued interest would become income of your son for purposes of taxation. There would be no State or local income taxes.

QUESTION: When is the most advisable or advantageous time to exchange E bonds for H bonds?

ANSWER: Whenever a need for current income arises, most commonly at retirement time. Through such an exchange, the principal is retained intact; accrued interest on the E bonds does not need to be reported for tax purposes until the H bonds are redeemed; and regular Treasury checks for interest on the H bonds are mailed every six months.

QUESTION: Is it possible for a minor to redeem a Savings Bond issued in his name?

ANSWER: Yes, provided he is sufficiently competent to sign his name to the request for payment and understand the nature of the transaction. Generally, the fact that the request for payment has been signed, and certified by the paying agent, is sufficient proof of competency.

NASA News..

HUNTSVILLE, ALA. - Three years ago today the United States successfully launched its first heavy duty space rocket, the initial Saturn I, and thus started "catching up" in the big rocket field.

Seven Saturn I's have now been launched, and all made almost flawless flights. These flights have proven many new rocket concepts and have contributed heavily to the larger vehicles, Saturn IB and Saturn V, which will carry three astronauts, first into earth orbit and later to the moon.

At 10:06 a. m. Oct. 27, 1961, the eight Saturn engine were ignited at the Cape Kennedy, Fla., launch pad. The 460 ton rocket, standing 162 feet tall, lifted off the pad. It rose slowly at first. Employees here at the NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center, who built the Saturn, heard a report that "it looks good."

Dr. Werner von Braun, director of the Marshall Center, watched the lift-off of the biggest rocket he ever built. It gained speed steadily and went into a pre-programmed arch over the Atlantic Ocean. It reached a height of 85 miles, during this check-out of the 32 million horsepower booster stage, and attained a top speed of 3,600 miles per hour.

The spent rocket fell into the Atlantic Ocean over 214 miles from Cape Kennedy, near the predicted impact point. The flight lasted eight minutes.

Another Saturn I was launched April 25, 1962, a third November 16, 1962, and a fourth March 28, 1963.

Then the Marshall Space Flight Center added a live upper stage, called the S-IV, on top of the fifth Saturn booster, launched January 29, 1964. It made a near perfect flight and placed more than 37,000 pounds into earth orbit, the heaviest load placed into space.

A sixth Saturn was launched May 28, 1964, again with the first and second stages live, and again with "payload" exceeding 37,000 pounds. Part of this orbiting package was an early model of an Apollo spacecraft.

Apollo is the name of the spacecraft scheduled to carry three astronauts to the moon by 1970.

A seven-h Saturn I, the last one launched, flew successfully September 18.

All the huge rockets made highly successful flights, an unprecedented feat.

Three more of this type rocket will be launched. The next one scheduled is aboard a river barge enroute to Cape Kennedy. It is to arrive October 30.

Meanwhile, employees at the Marshall Center today were readying components for the giant Saturn V rocket, the kind that will make trips to the moon and back.

It will be over 350 feet tall and five times more powerful than those launched so far. Each of its booster engines will be as powerful as all eight of the Saturn I engines combined.

The Saturn V can haul a 45 ton payload to the moon or place a payload of 120 tons into earth orbit.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA. - The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's barge, "Promise," left the Marshall Space Flight Center here last night with the latest Saturn I flight booster (S-1-B) and instrument unit aboard. It is due to Pass New Orleans Friday night and arrive at NASA Kennedy Space Center, Cape Kennedy, Fla., October 30.

This booster is the last S-I stage to be assembled at the Marshall Center.

The vehicle's second stage, the S-IV, built by Douglas Aircraft Co., at Santa Monica, Calif., will be transported aboard the modified aircraft "Pregnant Guppy" from the West Coast to the Cape. It is scheduled to arrive October 24.

The giant airplane will also pick up a boilerplate Apollo service module at the Marshall Center November 12 for delivery to the Cape the next day. The boilerplate Apollo command module to be launched aboard the same space flight is already at the launch area. Both were provided by the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Texas.

The tug boat pushing the "Promise" will be relieved at New Orleans by an ocean going tug for the remainder of the trip. The river tug will pick up the newly modified barge the "Palmemon" at New Orleans and return it to Huntsville.

The "Palmemon" is then scheduled to depart Huntsville about November 3 for the NASA Michoud Operations at New Orleans with the Chrysler-built S-1-B booster aboard.

SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

Prima Lee Luke celebrated her seventh birthday Saturday with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Luke.

The birthday theme was carried out by decorations and refreshments. Following the party Mr. and Mrs. Luke and children moved to New Orleans to take the barge "Palmemon" to the Cape.
